

EVENT 2
ALLEYWAY STAIRCASE
LONSDALE STREET MELBOURNE VIC 3000
09/08/2021

ORGANISED GROWTH

Located in a lane hidden off to the side of Lonsdale Street, we found an event of tables and chairs placed unusually in the middle of a flight of stairs. This was seen as an image of organised growth as a café expanded into adjacent space. Tables and chairs have been neatly placed between steps to create new open dining spaces for the restricted café without interrupting the flow of passing pedestrians. The diagram provokes the process of mitosis as a group of elements, expands in an organised state as they begin new groups made up of the sorted elements.

RE-IMAGINATION DESCRIPTION

This reimagining illustrates the event as a dam wall, holding a body of water. The large lake (B) represents the original pool of items, unorganised within the space. (X) includes the wall and land below, reflecting the effect the stairs had on organising the new elements (A/A'). As the water is released from the dam wall, the original body is allowed to grow in an organised state leaving programmes/inhabitants below undisturbed.
